

Innover Digital Recognized for Supply Chain Analytics Excellence, Fourth Year Running

Dear Media Friends,

We're excited to share that Innover Digital has been recognized for the fourth consecutive year by Supply & Demand Chain Executive in its "Top Supply Chain Projects" awards. This recognition reflects the impact our supply chain analytics solutions are making for enterprises navigating today's increasingly complex and fast-moving supply chain environment.

At a time when global supply chains are facing constant disruption and growing pressure to make faster, more accurate decisions, Innover Digital's work focuses on helping organizations do exactly that—by improving visibility across the supply chain, strengthening forecasting, and enabling more confident, data-driven decision-making.

Being recognized for four consecutive years holds special meaning for us, as it reflects the consistent, real-world impact our teams create with clients every day—helping them move from reactive operations to more proactive, intelligent supply chain management.

This recognition also underscores the growing importance of advanced analytics in modern supply chain transformation, where organizations are steadily shifting from reactive management to proactive, insight-led execution.

We would be happy to provide additional details, case insights, or perspectives if you are considering coverage of stories around supply chain transformation and analytics-led innovation.
